STRATEGIC THINKING

1. Strategic®

What Is Strategic?

People with strong Strategic talents can sort through the clutter to find the best route. You can't teach this skill. It is a distinct way of thinking — a unique perspective on the world at large. This outlook allows them to see patterns where others see complexity. Mindful of these patterns, they envision alternative scenarios, always asking, "What if this happened?" This recurring question helps them see, plan and prepare for future situations. They see a way when others assume there is no way. Armed with this strategy, they move forward.

Why Your Strategic Is Unique

These Strengths Insights are personalized based on your CliftonStrengths results.

Strategic	Focus	Restorative	Communication	Individualization
-----------	-------	-------------	---------------	-------------------

Because of your strengths, you work diligently to invent alternative courses of action. You notice new as well as unusual configurations in facts, evidence, or data. Others, however, can see only separate, unrelated bits of information. You are fascinated by problems that puzzle, confound, or frustrate most people.

By nature, you focus on uncertainties and develop plausible scenarios based on the full range of possible outcomes. Some may think you are an optimist, and others might think you are a pessimist, but you view yourself as a realist.

It's very likely that you normally find just the right words at the right moment to express whatever you are thinking and feeling. Many people are likely to appreciate your fine speaking abilities. You can present your ideas in a reasonable, sequential, and methodical way. Moreover, you generate lots of options for others to consider.

Instinctively, you are aware that patterns can emerge slowly. So when you make a plan, you often reevaluate to see if there are new, better options, and you are willing to change your strategy when it makes sense.

Chances are good that you know it is extremely important to think about what happens next. Preparation is the best way to avoid being overwhelmed.

How Strategic Blends With Your Other Top Five Strengths

STRATEGIC + FOCUS

Your mind is open to considering multiple options. But once you have chosen an option, those you have not chosen become invisible to you.

STRATEGIC + RESTORATIVE

Your ability to see and willingness to consider all available options allow you to bring creativity to your problem-solving efforts.

STRATEGIC + COMMUNICATION

You have many stories in your repertoire, but you sort through all of them to find the perfect one for each situation.

STRATEGIC + INDIVIDUALIZATION

You appreciate the rich diversity of humanity, and you can see and consider a broad range of possible options.

Apply Your Strategic to Succeed

Think ahead to gain perspective.

- ☐ Take time to fully plan your path forward. While you easily see patterns where others see complexity, it is important to make time to envision these alternative scenarios.
- ☐ Practice explaining your decision-making process before talking with others. Doing this ensures people know you have considered different options and opinions to inform your decision.

EXECUTING

2. Focus®

What Is Focus?

People with strong Focus talents prioritize and then take action. They set goals that serve as their compass, helping them determine priorities and make alterations when needed to get back on course. Their Focus is powerful because it forces them to filter; they instinctively evaluate each action before taking it to decide whether it will help them reach their goal. In the end, strong Focus talents push them to be efficient. They are extremely valuable team members because their single-mindedness enhances the speed and quality of their performance and keeps the team on track.

It’s very likely that you sometimes feel good about yourself and life in general when you exhibit the self-discipline to apply all your energy — mental and physical — to a particular job, assignment, goal, or obligation.

Instinctively, you customarily work diligently to set weekly performance targets for yourself. Outlining each day’s tasks probably enables you to ignore distractions so you stay on schedule.

Chances are good that you might consider certain things you need to do better as a person or as a professional. When you are reflecting on important matters, you might be surprised to discover how many hours have passed without your even noticing.

Driven by your talents, you might have strong powers of concentration. When necessary, you might reduce plans, processes, or mechanisms into their fundamental parts. Perhaps your methodical approach frees you to understand how and why certain things do or do not operate properly.

Because of your strengths, you are primarily concerned with facts and reality. Usually you reject whatever is impractical or exists only in someone’s imagination. Not surprisingly, you are determined to become proficient in the language of your chosen profession, area of study, or field of interest. You frequently introduce these terms in your speech or writing.

3. Restorative™

What Is Restorative?

People with strong Restorative talents love to solve problems. While some are discouraged when they encounter yet another breakdown, this energizes those with strong Restorative talents. They enjoy the challenge of analyzing symptoms, identifying what is wrong and finding the solution. They like bringing things back to life by fixing them or rekindling their vitality. In short, they bring courage and creativity to problematic situations.

Why Your Restorative Is Unique

Instinctively, you yearn to capture the top prize and be named the best. This explains why you reflect on what you need to do better to outperform, outproduce, or outscore everyone else.

It's very likely that you derive much joy from starting new projects, jobs, or courses of study. Before moving ahead, you automatically think about the things you need to upgrade, perfect, or do better.

Driven by your talents, you usually pay more attention to your shortcomings than your strong points. You customarily devote yourself to overcoming your limitations.

By nature, you savor the time you spend with people who are knowledgeable concerning events of the past. They probably enlighten you about important events, places, or individuals. This information likely causes you to reflect on what could have been improved or done better.

Because of your strengths, you ponder what needs to be done better. In an unrushed and measured manner, you make needed improvements and upgrades.

- ☐ Be patient when addressing complex situations with many components. Acknowledge that fully restoring such processes can take time.

INFLUENCING

4. Communication®

What Is Communication?

People with strong Communication talents like to explain, describe, host, present and write. Using their natural talents, they bring ideas and events to life. They turn thoughts and actions into stories, images, examples and metaphors. They want their information — whether an idea, an event, a discovery or a lesson — to captivate the audience. This drives them to hunt for the perfect phrase and draws them toward dramatic words and powerful statements, which is why people like listening to them. Their word pictures pique interest, provide clarity and inspire others to act.

Why Your Communication Is Unique

These Strengths Insights are personalized based on your CliftonStrengths results.

Strategic	Focus	Restorative	Communication	Individualization
-----------	-------	-------------	---------------	-------------------

Because of your strengths, you may prefer to be with another person or a group rather than spend time alone. This partially explains why you introduce yourself to some newcomers. Perhaps you search for common interests you can discuss.

Instinctively, you distinguish the fine points of each person’s contribution to a conversation. You guide the exchange of information by drawing out the singular perspectives of everyone involved. You help individuals bring forth their varied, peculiar, eccentric, quaint, or unusual viewpoints. By honoring the uniqueness of each human being, you enliven many dialogues.

Driven by your talents, you may choose to spend time with reasonable people. Perhaps you appreciate their ability to rely on their minds rather than their emotions. If personal or professional problems, challenges, or opportunities arise, these individuals might exhibit better judgment than others you know.

Chances are good that you select assignments where you can work by yourself. You likely refrain from talking about what you are doing until you finish it. Afterward, you probably feel comfortable sharing ideas, stories, or examples of your own progress with other members of the group.

It's very likely that you freely share your ideas or feelings with others. Being tongue-tied — that is, unable to speak freely — is rarely a problem for you. Words quickly come to mind when you are with people. Your ease with language enables you to meet, greet, and treat strangers as if they already were your friends.

RELATIONSHIP BUILDING

5. Individualization®

What Is Individualization?

People with strong Individualization talents understand and are intrigued by others’ unique qualities. Impatient with generalizations, they focus on the differences among individuals. They instinctively observe each person’s style and motivation, how each thinks, and how each builds relationships. They keenly observe other people’s strengths and draw out the best in each person. Their Individualization talents help them build productive teams. While some search for the perfect team “structure” or “process,” these employees know instinctively that the secret to great teams is casting by individual strengths — so that everyone can do a lot of what they already do well.

Chances are good that you might enjoy working by yourself for hours, days, weeks, or even months on tasks that benefit others. Occasionally you prefer solitude when you have a job to finish.

It’s very likely that you are highly sensitive to what others think of you. This sensitivity continually motivates you to do things better than you have in the past.

Because of your strengths, you are acutely aware of how your teammates perceive your abilities. You can sense what they think of you as a person. These insights many times allow you to earn their confidence so you can contribute even more to the group’s success.
